12. “Jorge Tacla: Sign of Abandonment” at Cristin Tierney Gallery

Ahead of his exhibition at the Fundación CorpArtes in Santiago, Chile, opening November 21, Jorge Tacla presents a series of new paintings. His architectural scenes, rendered in oil and cold wax, feature some of the world’s most important museums, libraries, and universities, but with an unsettling lack of human visitors. In these politically contentious times, the artist hopes to remind the viewer of the importance of studying the lessons of history.

540 West 28th Street, November 2–December 16, 2017; opening reception, 6 p.m.–8 p.m.
